FOREWORD

This Accessions List is devoted entirely to the Ifor B. Powell Collection of pamphlets, periodicals and newspaper cuttings about contemporary history, government and politics. The Collection is housed in the History Research Room.

(a) The Pamphlets

A few of the pamphlets are from the First World War period. A considerable number belonging to the Inter-War years are of League of Nations or League of Nations Union origin, and there are also some Chatham House (Royal Institute of International Affairs) Information Papers and Group Papers dealing with colonial questions in the same period. The months immediately preceding the outbreak of the Second World War in September 1939 are treated in an American review of world affairs called Events and in the Chatham House publication, Bulletin of International News. Other pamphlets are about United States government, politics and foreign policy. There are a dozen or so papers published between 1960 and 1965 by the South African Institute of International Affairs on South African problems. There is an almost complete run of the fortnightly Reports of the Foreign Policy Association of the U.S.A. for the years 1945 to 1951, when the Reports were discontinued: each Report deals with a separate topic. There are also a few issues of the other F.P.A. publication, the Bulletin. Lastly, there are many booklets and pamphlets, including some published by Chatham House, the F.P.A., and the Institute of Pacific Relations, on Far Eastern questions in the Inter-War years and since 1945.

(b) The Press Cuttings

The press cuttings, which are in a four-drawer cabinet, are mainly from The Times. Those about the U.S.A. are also from the New York Times, Time, and New Republic, etc.

The list of folders, given below, indicates their range.

(Mr. Powell wishes to thank Messrs. David H. Davies and Peter Revell for their help in assembling this material and to add to his thanks to Mrs. Elizabeth Morris a word of praise for her patience in cataloguing all these bits and pieces.)

NOTE ON THE ARRANGEMENT

The pamphlets and periodicals that form a large part of the Collection are contained in pamphlet boxes. The contents of the various boxes are arranged to group related material together, generally in broad subject divisions. Where the items in a particular subject division are too numerous to go into one box, they have been put into two or more boxes. In order to make full use of the available space, individual pamphlets were fitted in according to their size and bulk.

As the Checklist is intended primarily for use with the Collection rather than as a bibliography, the contents of each box are listed in sequence. This preserves the broad subject divisions but means that where a particular subject division is spread over two or more boxes the listing of the items in that division will be in two or more alphabetical sequences of authors.
